

Rainforest Calling

9:50 a.m.

I wonder if the person who gave the rainforest its name had ever actually been there. Surely, if they had, they'd have called it the 'plant forest' instead.

Mrs Curtis, my teacher, told us that more than two thirds of the world's plant species live in rainforest environments. That's more than 80,000 different plants!

There's no way that I'm telling my Grandma Wilkins that! She'd be on the first plane to Brazil with her lucky gardening gloves because she really loves plants. Do you know, she once told me that she might love plants even more than she loves my mum! Don't worry, I haven't told my mum that.

That's one of the reasons why I volunteered for this project - so that I could tell my grandma about all the plants. Mrs Curtis wanted one of us to spend a whole week looking at some webcams in the Amazonian rainforest.

I put my hand straight up. My best friend Millie said that the last time she'd seen anything move as fast as my arm was when someone told her daft brother that the bank was giving away free money. Who wouldn't volunteer to spend the whole week looking at the Amazon? I think that I'd be really good at spotting all the different plants and animals.

As soon as Mrs Curtis looked at me, I knew that I hadn't been picked. She had the same expression on her face that she uses to tell us that we've got a maths question wrong as she said, "Maybe next time, Daisy." Jack Walters got picked instead, but he changed his mind when he found out that we're only allowed to look at the webcams during our breaks and at lunchtime. He said that there was no way that he was going to miss playing football in the playground. So Mrs Curtis ended up choosing me anyway! I don't mind having to do normal lessons - I got nine out of ten on my spellings last week. Still can't spell rhinnsororaus, though.

Mrs Curtis said that I have to write a journal entry to tell the rest of the class what I've seen on the webcams. I haven't written a journal before. The only things I write at home are lists of my favourite songs and the things I want for Christmas, but Mrs Curtis said not to worry and to just write as I like to speak. I think that should make it easier!

Questions

- What does Daisy suggest the rainforest should be called?
- According to the text, what portion of the world's plant species live in the rainforest?

80,000	about half
more than two thirds	1 in 10
- Which of these words or phrases shows that Daisy offered to give up her time willingly?

picked	wanted
volunteered	allowed
- Match these character names to the correct descriptions:

Mrs Wilkins

Jack Walters

Millie

Mrs Curtis

- Which of the following are things that Daisy normally writes at home. Tick two.

her journal	Christmas list
lists of her favourite songs	shopping list
- As part of the project, Daisy has to... (tick two)
 - ...get on a plane to Brazil.
 - ...look at some webcams in the Amazonian rainforest.
 - ...miss her spelling test.

A 'green conversation' charity set the webcams up a few years ago (I'm not actually sure what a green conversation is, or a red or yellow or pink conversation either) and when Mrs Curtis logged on with her laptop, she showed me that we can move the webcams with the arrows on the keyboard. If I want to move left or right, up or down, I just press the arrows. I can even move from camera to camera so that I can explore each layer of the rainforest! Mrs Curtis also said that the Amazon rainforest is over 5,000 miles away from our school, yet I can still move the lens in any direction I want. Sometimes, technology is amazing!

Questions

1. Which of these characters are children in Daisy's class?

Millie

Curtis

Jack

Walter

2. Match the characters with the description or information given about them in the text:

a) Grandma Wilkins

scored 9 out of 10 in the spelling test.

b) Jack

is a teacher who knows about rainforests.

c) Daisy

loves to play football.

d) Mrs Curtis

loves plants.

3. Find and copy a word that means Daisy freely offered to give up her time to participate in the project.

4. How do Jack and Daisy react differently to giving up their breaktimes to do the rainforest project?

5. Which two things does Daisy say that she normally writes at home?

6. Find and copy two types of food or ingredients that come from the rainforest that are mentioned in the text.

7. What is the purpose of Daisy's journal?

8. Summarise the text in 30 words or fewer.

I'd love to spend all my time looking for the monkeys, or even a Bigfoot! My dad says that scientists claim there are still over five million animal species waiting to be discovered in the world, and most of those probably live in the rainforest. He wants me to keep my eyes peeled for a Bigfoot because he says, "Daisy, that'll be like winning the lottery!"

Anyway, my dad thinks that he knows lots about the rainforest. I think that he might have read the same books as Mrs Curtis because they both said that lots of what we all take for granted comes from the rainforest. Those beans that they use to make chocolate come from there, and pineapples, too, plus the ginger that goes into yummy biscuits... even rubber for the soles of my trainers.

Millie says that her uncle has an important job at the city museum and he reckons that more than twenty-five percent (that's a quarter) of all medicines use plants from the rainforest. So if you stay up too late and have a headache, or get an iffy tummy after you've eaten one of your dad's home-made curries, the medicine that you are given could be made from rainforest plants. How amazing is that?

What I'd really like to find, though, is a new kind of flower - maybe one of those beautiful orchids. When you find something new like that, those clever people you see on the documentary channels sometimes let you name them. I'd call mine the Wilkins orchid, after Grandma Wilkins. That would make her feel very important, and she tells me that she's always wanted to be a VIP!

Questions

1. What is the meaning of the word 'volunteered'?
2. Use the drop down menu to find the correct ending for each sentence.

a) 80,000	Percentage of all medicines that we use, which come from the rainforest.
b) 5000	The number of spellings Daisy got correct on her test.
c) 25	Distance in miles from school to the Amazon rainforest.
d) 9	Number of different plant species in the rainforest.

3. Complete the table by showing whether each statement is a fact or an opinion.

	Fact	Opinion
Daisy volunteered to take part in the project.
Watching the rainforest would be exciting.
The flowers in the rainforest are beautiful.
A charity set up the webcams.

4. How do you think Daisy feels about being chosen to take part in the project? Give evidence for your answer.
5. What kind of relationship do you think that Daisy has with her grandma? Use evidence from the text to support your answer.

6. Find and copy two types of food or ingredients that come from the rainforest that are mentioned in the text.

7. Find and copy a phrase which means that we fail to appreciate something because we're so familiar with it.

8. What type of flower does Daisy hope to find in the rainforest and what name would she give it?

9. Which of these does Daisy mean with the abbreviation VIP?
 - Very Interesting Project
 - Very Important Person
 - Vegetation In Places
 - Vanishing In Power

10. Summarise the text in 30 words or fewer.
